Clear all

Expanding on the ethos of theindex.la, Index also takes shape irl—hosting community workshops, open studios, film screenings, pop-up exhibits and conversations we call On The Table.

What we know.

What we know

Within the creative industry, we are respected for our point of view and have become a reliable source for finding quality talent for a variety of collaborations.

“Index is an essential for anyone’s tool belt. It’s my starting point for any project— it’s constantly updated with a diverse range of styles and POV. There’s a real community here. One that puts the artist first. You can feel the curation and that the intention is not based on money, but that craft.”

- Ryan Blackway, Kamp Grizzly

“Index is our studio’s go-to resource for finding potential photography and film partners for our projects. Each artist has been curated to meet their high visual standard, and being able to easily filter between location and specialty ensures that we can find the right partner in the right location for the right project.”

- Ramon Coronado, Public Library

What we know

Carrying that respect, we continue to be a trusted partner and benefactor for creative endeavors within the artist community as well.

“Initially, to be included in such a well curated index of photographers was an honor. The platform demonstrates an inclusive and diverse group of artists. Their ability to take the digital platform and manifest artwork in the real world, in a physical space, was even more fulfilling. Not only is the Index helpful with exposure, but having my work included alongside other incredible artists maintains their quality and dedication.”

- Kelia Anne, Photographer

“Index extended an invitation to the spectacular Mexico City to exhibit my work. When meeting the team, not only did they find a way to make sure my experience was gratifying, but they immersed me in the cultural, social, and underground aspects of a city I’d never have the opportunity to see in the way I did. Through the exhibiting of my work, we found means of collaboration far beyond my initial expectations. The support I received through Index was paramount to many of which I’ve experienced thus far in my career. I’d highly recommend working with Index on any level.”

- Yumna Al-Arashi, Photographer

What's next.

2019 + 2020

focus on digital archive build-out + artist engagement

- make sure all artists that need to be included in the archive have been added.
- continue to build relationships with artist community irl.

2021+

move offline

- close the digital archive
- publish Digest - an annual publication highlighting Index artists.
- bring the Index library to fruition. Offering artists resources + space irl.

Let's build something beautiful
